The class of 1965 wishes to express its sincere gratitude to Dean John L. Roche, by dedicating this yearbook in his name. Throughout the year Dean Roche has been an example of the personality of Cape Cod Community College.

We wish to remember you, Dean Roche, as the man who always had a minute to listen to our problems and give advice and help when it was needed. We wish to remember you as the dedicated Dean of Students, hurrying to administration conferences, leaning over the podium at assemblies, and stopping in the halls to chat with students before reaching your work-cluttered desk.

You came to the College in June of 1963, have given it so very much of yourself, and will be here to see the new campus and help give it the good start it so much deserves. Thank you, Dean, for being our friend, for having the time to give so freely of yourself to help us.

Generations of students and teachers have left this old building at the end of a college day, glad for a brief respite from books, but willing to face the same ordeal tomorrow. As a normal school and as a Maritime Academy this foursquare brick structure has earned its keep over and over again. Now, in stolid and dignified later years, it houses one of the newest and most exciting ventures in higher education to come to our state in a long time.

Our quest for knowledge has been like a long passage of stairs; step by step we have risen; there have been many turns; there have been many platforms at which we rested and paused to gain a surer footing and gather our strength.

With each step, the ground seems further down, the end a little closer. Our future holds more steps in store, more landings at which to pause and assess our progress.

Our guides have been patient, have given good council. To them we owe a duty, long and hard to fully endure: not to fall, not to stop, not to recede toward the darkness from which we came.

Before we go on, beyond these flights of steps, we would like to turn, if for but a moment's hesitation in our eagerness to climb, and thank our helpers.

Without you, our steps would have been unsteady and without direction.

Thank you, for showing us the way.
